Dear Title Block,

As we pondered what to do, suddenly the phone rang. The hotel manager informed us that we were being summoned to the front desk. For what reason, we did not know.

After months of prayer and planning, we launched out on a survey trip of the southeastern jungle region of Perú. Stepping out by faith, we made the arrangements to fly to the small town of Puerto Maldonado. Uncertain of what to do next, and having little knowledge of the region, we relied upon God to guide us. After checking into a local hotel, we mused in our hearts why God brought us to this dense jungle area. Then...the phone rang.

When we arrived in the lobby, we scanned the vicinity but saw no one waiting. Then, to the right of the front door we saw a young man with an enormous smile watching us. Content that we were the right people, he approached us. "Are you missionaries?" he asked. We learned his name was Emerson.

Emerson explained that there were no missionaries in the entire region. He offered his help to travel the river channels with us to take the Gospel to the isolated tribes. Others we met expressed the same desire for us to come and work in this region. An open door of ministry has been set before us among these precious people!

These are the types of opportunities for missionary ministry that the Lord is opening up for us. In order to step through this door of opportunity and others, we are in need of brothers and sisters like you to financially partner with us. Our greatest need right now is faithful monthly support. We ask you to prayerfully consider supporting our ministry for $25 month, or however the Lord leads you.

We are excited about the many opportunities before us: taking the Gospel to unreached areas, conducting pastoral conferences to train national leaders, and training junior missionaries. In south-eastern Perú alone, we have identified at least four unreached tribes living in the headwaters of these rivers. They desperately need the Gospel.

All smiles from this Indian girl when we visited her jungle village.

Thank you for your consideration.

His for the Harvest,
